Khet Talai

Details (Khet Talai)

Khet Talai Yojana under the Agriculture Department of Rajasthan Government, The biggest problem for farmers in Rajasthan is water for irrigation. One solution to this problem is a farm pond or in other words, a farm pond, by which the farmer can collect rainwater and use it for irrigation, but all the farmers get it constructed. Therefore, the state government gives a subsidy to the farmers on the construction of farm ponds so that the farmers can collect rainwater and irrigate their fields by making farm ponds in their fields. ■ Other important points After the application, administrative approval for the construction of the farm pond will be issued by the Agriculture Department. Information about this will be received through mobile message/agriculture supervisor. Spot verification will be done by the department before and after the construction of Khet Talai.
